PLAINTIFF’S RULE 26(a)(1)(A)(iii) DISCLOSURE

COMES NOW the Plaintiff, James L. Williams, by counsel, pursuant to Rule 26(a)(1)(A)(iii) and the Court’s March 15, 2016 Discovery Order (Dkt. No. 10-1), and makes the following damages disclosures:

I. Computation of Damages

A. Economic Damages and Specific Instances of Credit Denial

The Plaintiff has experienced specific and known damage in the form of a denial of an apartment rental in Ellicott City, Maryland. Plaintiff applied for this apartment so he and his wife could live near their college aged daughter while they looked to purchase and rehab permanent housing nearby. Because Plaintiff was denied the apartment based on falsely being accused as a sex offender, he was forced to commute from Chicago, Illinois to various hotels in Hagerstown, Maryland while he looked to purchase and rehab a permanent home. As a result of the denial, Plaintiff made the approximate 650 mile trip from Chicago, IL to Hagerstown, MD on at least five occasions, four by car and once by air. Plaintiff estimates that the cost for each trip by car-by calculating the approximate mileage by $0.55- to cost him $715.00, one way. Plaintiff also flew once, an expense he estimates at approximately $300.00. Plaintiff also incurred hotel expenses for approximately 26 nights in Hagerstown, MD. Each night cost the Plaintiff approximately $100.00. Plaintiff's economic damage also includes the considerable time he spent traveling from Chicago, IL to Hagerstown, MD. These general travel expenses equal approximately $7,190.00, which he seeks to recover from the Defendant. Each trip driving took approximately 11.5 hours, one way. The flight took approximately 4 hours each way. Plaintiff makes approximately $95.00 an hour when he is paid on an hourly basis (otherwise, he is a tenured college professor). He estimates he has incur at least 77 hours in travel time due to Defendant's improperly identifying him as a sex offender.

B. Non-economic Damages

The Plaintiff seeks damages that are unliquidated for the following categories of harm as "actual damage" in this matter. These actual damages are not liquidated and do not lend themselves to a statement of calculation but may be subject to an award of damages. Williams v. Trader Pub. Co., 218 F.3d 481, 486-487 (5th Cir. 2000); See Burrell v. Crown Central Petroleum, Inc., 177 F.R.D. 376, 386 (E.D.Tex.1997). Such damages will be determined by the jury in this matter.

Categories and types of Actual Damages

- i. Plaintiff has suffered emotional and mental anguish, anxiety, frustration, humiliation, embarrassment and annoyance from being denied an apartment.
- ii. This anxiety was manifested in an outbreak of hives and rash over his entire body from a pre-existing medical condition that is worsened by stress or anxiety. As a result of this outbreak, Plaintiff had to take over the counter and use prescription skin care cream to manage the symptoms of the outbreak.
- iii. Plaintiff has suffered emotional and mental anguish, humiliation, anger and frustration, annoyance, and embarrassment as a result of the publication of the false information.
- iv. Plaintiff has suffered general damages in the form of damage to reputation.
- v. Plaintiff has been strapped with a false history, causing mental anguish, emotional distress, frustration, humiliation, and annoyance.
- vi. Plaintiff has suffered lost opportunities to spend time with his daughter who is attending college in Maryland. He also lost opportunities to obtain another apartment in a more geographically desirable for fear that he would be accused of being a sex offender again.

- vii. Plaintiff suffers anxiety when considering applying for a new apartment or thinking that his employer, teenage students or his students' parents will learn he was accused of being a sex offender, because he believes, justifiably, that she will be forced to once again subject herself to the humiliation of having to explain the false and defamatory information previously that has been circulated about him is untrue.

Case Law Supporting Actual Damages

Such damages will likely be in keeping with the following decisions and settlements involving consumer credit issues and damages for emotional distress, embarrassment and humiliation and similar elements:
